

The High EQ Project Leader - Building a High Performance Project Team

Hands on workshop to Build a High Performance Team

A team's performance is significantly impacted by the organizational "climate" which in turn is directly affected by the style of its manager. Building a High Performance Project Team is a two-day course that helps participants create a structured plan to improve team culture and increase project staff engagement and commitment.

The workshop provides a constructive, structured methodology for measuring "climate" and empowers project managers and aspiring managers with the tools, knowledge and skills to create the desired climate that is congruent with results that are to be achieved by the team.

WHO SHOULD ATTEND?

Project Managers and members seeking to experience consistently greater success and fulfillment in what they do! HR Managers looking to supplement their internal technical offerings with a best-of-class resource for developing the Emotional Competencies of their teams.

Date : 25 - 26 May 2011
